

COFFEE, DOGS & DONUTS

With Rachael Ray & Robert Herjavec!

There are 44 million households in the US with pet dogs.

The Show Concept

In each episode, on bright and beautiful Sunday mornings, Rachael Ray and Robert Herjavec are joined by the director of a local AASPCA and travel to a popular dog park to kibitz with everyday dog owners and hear their personal dog stories. The dog park denizens tell Rachael and Robert incredible dog stories ranging from humorous to life-saving and everything in between. From the park the group hit the favorite local breakfast haunt to enjoy great coffee, warm pastries and more fun and fascinating conversation. Interlaced in the chit-chat are cutaway snippets ranging from hilarious dog park doggie antics to fascinating facts about canine health and pet-care awareness. CD&D is a bright, cheerful, cute, educational, curious, smiling, sunlit, feel-good show.

The Dog Stories

Stories include the ex marine veteran who credits his dog with rescuing him from depression and PTSD syndrome, the dog that barked and awoke his owners in the nick of time saving them from a house fire, the dog that saw a small boy drowning in a river and ran in, pulling the boy to shore by the scruff of his neck, or the dog that growled away bullies harassing a mailman, or the dog that ran off chasing a squirrel during a family vacation and traveled 200 miles to find his way back home one month later, or the little old lady who finally took in a scruffy stray pup who would bark at her door every morning until she finally broke down and adopted him – and found happiness after years of mourning her late husband who was the love of her life.

There is no end to great dog stories.
